

PRESS RELEASE
For immediate release

Kane Environmental supports maritime industry through sponsorship of The Promise of the Arctic

SEATTLE – May 28, 2013 – Kane Environmental, Inc. announces its sponsorship of The Promise of the Arctic, a policy-driven conference that seeks to explore the opportunities, and challenges, of the harsh Arctic environment. The two-day conference will begin on Wednesday, May 29 at the Bell Harbor Convention Center in Seattle.

“Living and working in the Pacific Northwest, we understand the significance of the maritime industry to our region,” says John Kane, President and CEO of Kane Environmental, a full-service environmental consulting firm. “Our sponsorship of The Promise of the Arctic is our way to support the maritime businesses who significantly contribute to our local and regional economic growth, creating jobs in this important industry.”

About Kane Environmental

Founded in 2000, Kane Environmental is a full-service environmental consulting firm delivering cost-effective, innovative, and comprehensive solutions for customers nationwide. Kane Environmental provides services such as environmental site assessments, soil and groundwater remediation, and geotechnical services, creating opportunities for investment and growth in the communities where it operates. Headquartered in Seattle, Kane Environmental has offices in Portland and San Francisco, and nationwide project experience in 23 states.

For more information about Kane Environmental, visit <http://www.kane-environmental.com> and follow them on Twitter and LinkedIn.

For further information, please contact:

Karen Weber-Millstein
Cloud City Communications
206-498-7741
karen@cloudcitycommunications.com